STREET HAWKING OVER EDUCATION

Have you ever thought about this? A child on the road selling stuff. Do you ever feel comfortable buying from that child or do you just buy from that child out of pity. I hope I didn't make a mistake writing pity instead of compassion.

Many a times I couldn't bear it but keep wondering what will be the circumstances of the parents or guardian of these children to the extent of sending them for street hawking. I understand that some of these parents cannot afford to provide daily food, shelter and clothing for their kids, which are the needs of life. But should this be the reason why a child should be found hawking on the street instead of being in the school.

What about the other side of it, the dangers of this street hawking in the life of a child.

It comes with road accident. Some children are unfortunate by losing lives while hawking on the street. That destiny is gone because money was preferred over that life than its future. Oftentimes some driver never cares to take the victims for treatment; they will just abandon the person to the detriment of his life. Accidents is in no doubt a regular occurrence to street hawkers.

Most innocent souls are defile and lured into sinful act. Mostly for the young girls. Most of them get deflowered and pregnant. Not knowing what to do and who to run to they end up having a miserable life. No place to go because life itself has been unfair to them from the start. They end up becoming street girls, single mothers who could not afford a better life for their offspring only few could overcome. They turn to be hardened to life because they thought that it is best of life they can offer themselves.

What about the boys you might ask? Nowadays we have more "motor park boys" as we often call them "agboro boys" than educated working class men. They graduated from street boys to gang boys. Wounders of men instead of builders of men. Rapist and arm robbers. The origin of most of them is from street hawking.

Are we only going to accuse the government for not giving us a better life as if it's the government that owns our life? What about we joining hands Vto-gether to get these children to a better life not minding what the community says but minding what the future says. Children are the future we see today. If we leave them to be street hawkers they will end up giving birth to street hawkers too. If we give them a better education they will end up having a better future.

Like I said earlier "pity and not compassion". Buying from a child out of pity is not the best option but sending a child to school out of compassion is the best life you can give a child.

Let stand together to send a child to school instead of street hawking because education is the best foundation for a successful future.

MY LOVE FOR HUMANITY

PART 1

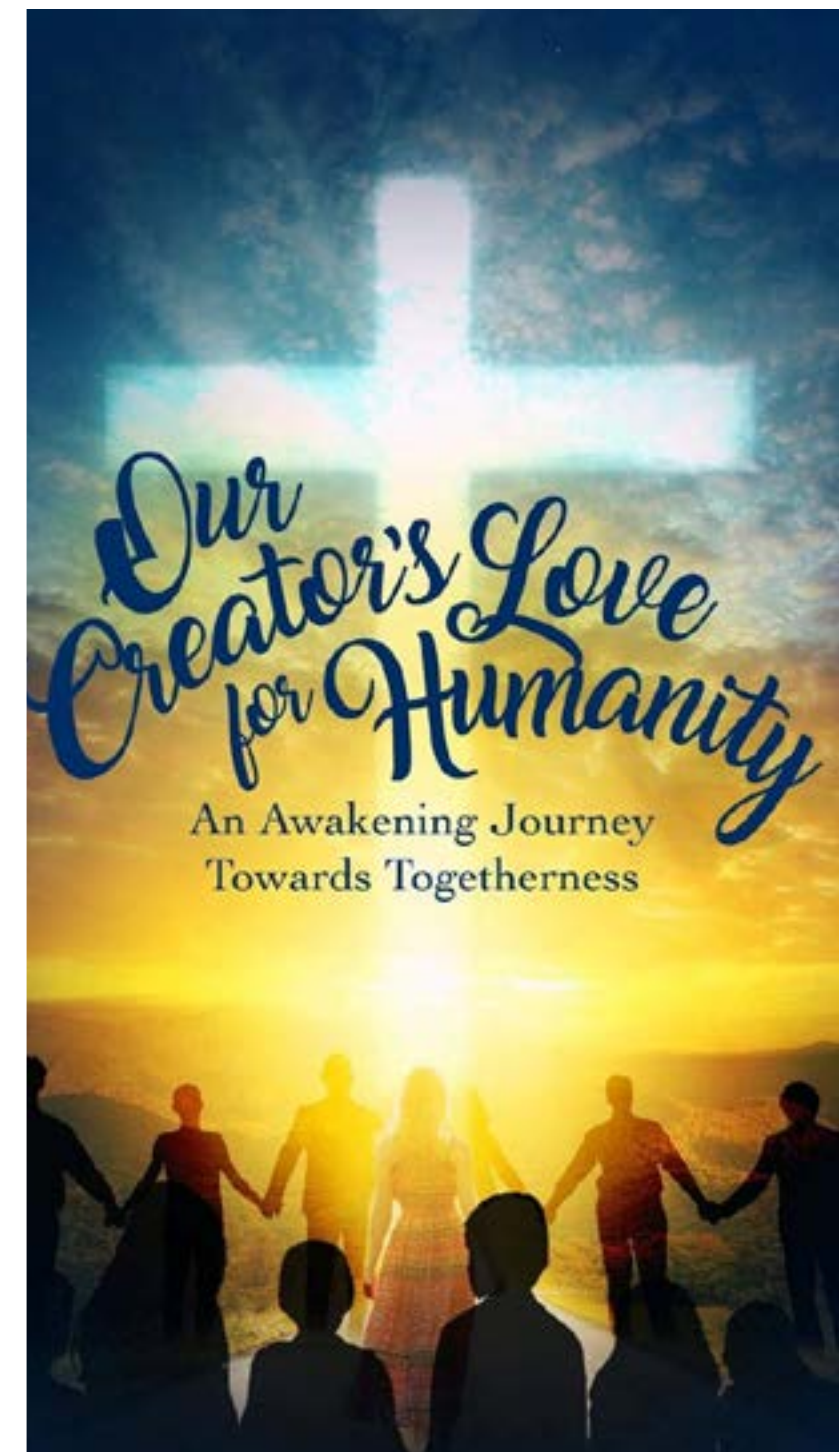

Everyone is struggling to survive.
 Everyman is thinking for himself
 Just for himself.
 I want to be great
 I want to be great
 That is the only language rings out of our mind.
 Riches and greatness
 Ambitiousness and strive to get to that greatness
 Oh brethren
 What a society we are in
 What a world full of selfishness and greed.

All in the name of greatness.
 Brother's killing Brothers
 Sisters betraying one another.
 Our little one's being lulled into the ungodly
 Things of this world.
 All in the name of being great.
 Oh not mentioning!!!
 Kidnapping
 Rituals
 Raping
 Casualties, everywhere and there

Our street is filled with blood
 Just like river of blood.
 All just in the name of greatness
 Our souls are being sold out to the king of this world Unknowingly.
 And what shall it profit a man to gain the world
 And loses his soul. The WORD quotes
 What happened to that greatest word?
 "L-O-V-E"
 It is abandoned

Humans has no regard for it any longer
 Yea, it doesn't exist, they said
 Because they couldn't love themselves
 How then can they love their brethren?
 Or the humanity
 Talk more of loving the Creator.
 Love the WORD quotes
 "It covereth all sin"
 Love builds and never destroys.
 Love bears one another and it never kills
 With the wordAACV "L-O-V-E"

L-O-V-E

We can be great
 Without any bloodshed, envy
 And so many atrocities going on among our humanity.
 We are created to Love
 And not to hate
 To care
 And not kill.
 Love is the greatest weapon to earn greatness
 Love the greatest strength to stand against all odds.
 Christ is Love and Love is Christ.
 Love without Christ is strive
 And Christ without Love is no
 Christ
 A life full of darkness and not
 Love
 Is destruction.
 This is my love for Humanity.

CHILD ABUSE

'Children are a heritage from God and the fruit of the womb is His reward'

What comes first to mind whenever I ponder on this verse of the Scripture is , what children truly are – a HERITAGE, and what it really means to be a heritage and how unseemly this heritage are abused in our societies today. The Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary defines the word heritage as the history, traditions and qualities that a country or society has had for so many years and that are considered an important part of its character. In view of this definition, it is not out of place to say here that children are fundamentally a reflection of the quality, strength and wealth of any people.

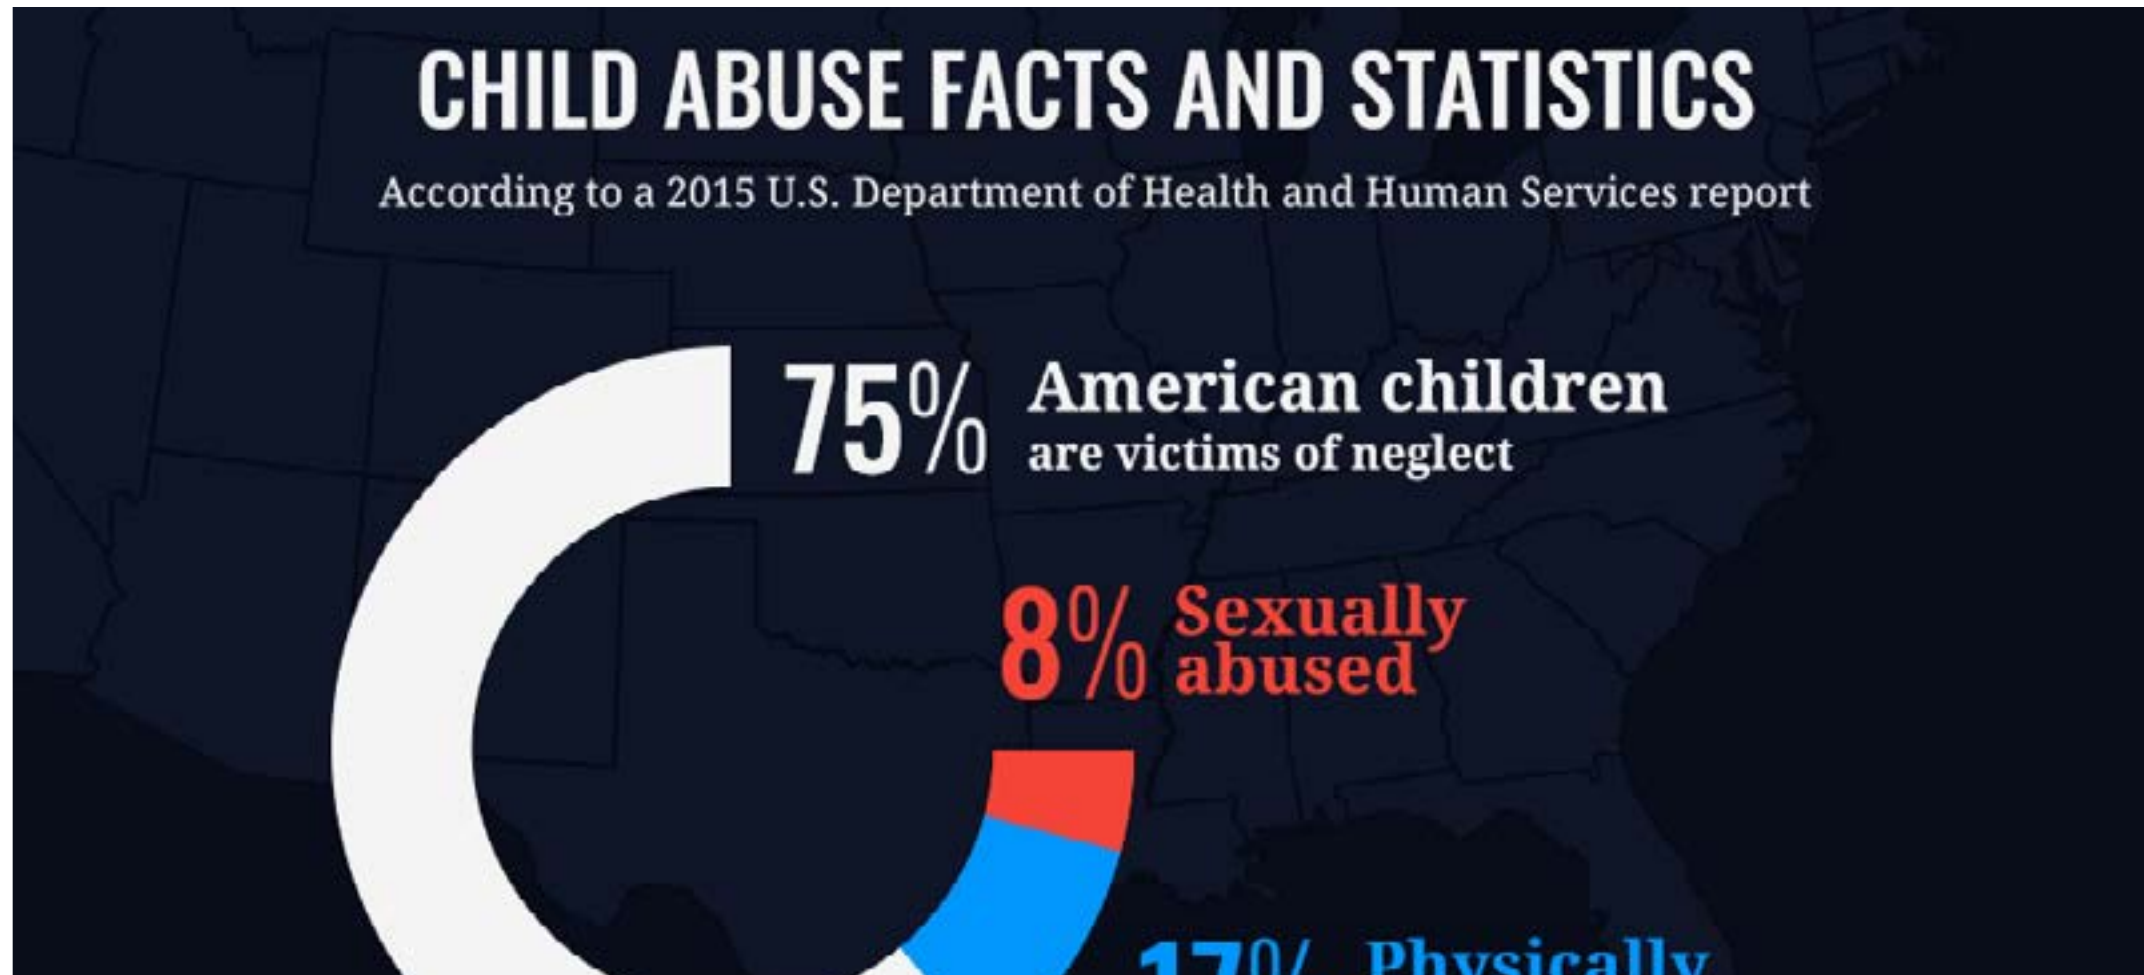

Translations from Scripture explains in two ways, according to Psalms 127 vs 3, from the King James and New King James Versions, children as a heritage 'of God' and 'from God'. Children as a legacy of God are seen as the embodiment of God's wealth, love, principles and values, a trajectory of His purpose for mankind delivered to him.

A child is a gift from God.

It will suffice to say at this point that one cannot measure the strength of any nation to its fullest capacity without due consideration of the status (wellbeing) of the child population. Show me a prosperous nation and I will show you a people whose children are adequately catered for. Relinquishing the capital strength of one's people for malicious immediate gains through child slavery and trafficking and other abusive act, will in the long run impact negatively in the present and for generations to come. Never undermine the activities of traffickers because this menace is closer to your doorstep than you are actually made to believe.

A press release by UNICEF on 29th July 2018, revealed that children account for nearly one third of identified trafficking victims globally. This figure according to UNICEF, is believed to be underestimated since very few victims come forward for fear of their traffickers, mistrust of authorities set up to combat these crimes, poor support etc.

CHILD ABUSE

According to a World Atlas Website article, majority of trafficking cases are from developing countries. This is not to say that there is no trafficking situation in developed countries, the difference being that developed countries have made concerted effort to erect structures that are successfully curbing these organized criminal activities. Yemen, South Korea, Venezuela and South Sudan are among other 3rd tier countries where victims are heavily sourced for illegal sex slavery and labor.

Within the confines of our immediate communities, the child is actively abused at a very alarming rate. Cases of sexual molestation by family a member, acquaintance or total stranger are very common. Wikipedia estimates that 30% of offenders are relatives of child, around 60% are acquaintances like neighbours or paid caregivers and 10 % are total strangers

Poverty is seen as one social factor responsible for child exposure to hard labour, a means to provide support for thriving families. These children are sent away from their homes to work with relatives or as paid helps where most go through physical and (or) sexual abuse that mars them for life, in the absence of timely intervention. The effects of child sexual abuses includes but not limited to post traumatic stress disorder, depression, anxiety, permanent physical injury in cases of prolonged exposure to severe venereal infection affecting the vital reproductive organ and serious psychological trauma especially in cases of incest.

We sure do not want the future of our nation to be in bad shape. What then must we do on the individual level to combat child abuse, preserving our legacy for the future?

1. Educate the child – Children are not to be seen as a means to an end. Stop child labour and ensure every child around you is given educational support. Report any person(s) depriving a child of education and other basic necessities to appropriate authority. Proper education is the right of every child.
 2. Close monitoring and parental accessibility – Parents/Guardians should ensure close monitoring of wards. Do not be too busy for your child's welfare. Work out safety regimen for their everyday movement to school or play. Remain approachable because over-the- board strictness will make children withhold information that could be vital for their own safety.
 3. Monitor online interactions- Traffickers are known to source victims online through manipulative and discrete conversations, a relationship spurn over a period of time. Restrict the use of internet or vet engagements closely if indispensable. Bring up discussions targeted at providing knowledge on cultivating healthy relationships, with your children.
 4. For a society to see the end of organized crime against children, it must not compromise on tough disciplinary measures against offenders no matter their level of influence.
- Conclusively, being a brother's keeper in the fight against child abuse, applying the above strategies and more will see to the smooth transition of an untainted legacy from one generation to another, stunting the growth of activities of the enemy who came only to steal, kill and destroy.

WHAT IS HUMANITY WITHOUT LOVE?

we are nothing without...

love

Love is the greatest and most powerful force to Humanity. Without Love, the world would be in chaos, the rate of death would be a million plus. To love is to cherish, to care for and to show affection.

Myles Munroe

Love is the best antidepressant there is because one of the most common sources of depression is feeling unloved. Most depressed people don't love themselves and they do not feel loved by others.

Ellen McGrath

What is love without sacrifice? Most people claim to love but can't sacrifice because they are scared or conscious of what they might lose or the pain they might feel in the process of sacrificing.

What is sacrifice without pain? When there is no pain attached to sacrifice, then it can't be called sacrifice. Though it might hurt, but sacrificing (your time, money, comfort and any other resources) can change so many things, lives, destinies, even decisions.

LOVE

If everybody can sincerely and genuinely love at least one person, the world would be a better place.

Love your neighbor as you love yourself (Mark 12:30-31)

Make someone feel loved and happy and you yourself will be happy...

PAINS OF HUMANITY

(Part one)

Grace Olabode had just finished paying for the groceries at the supermarket and was rushing out towards her car when someone bumped into her. The groceries fell from her hand, and went flying everywhere.

"Oh God. No. No. No," She muttered in annoyance. She was already late to pick up her son from school and now this.

"I'm so sorry madam", the stranger said nervously. He bent down to help pick up some of her stuff.

"Oh it's alright. It wasn't all your fault. I was in a hurry and didn't see you." He handed her the bag, that was when she got to see his face.

"You...." The shock was so evident. She quickly grabbed her bag and ran to her car. Tears were already beginning to well in her eyes. The events of that horrible night flashed on her mind. It all seemed like yesterday and the pain still felt real.

She had been married for six years now and all this while, she never had the courage to tell her husband what had happened to her, the night of her graduation from the university. That very night, had been the best and also the worst night of her life. Jide had proposed to her and they were making plans for the wedding. She had also just graduated and she and her friends had gone out to celebrate. How could she have known that she would get raped by the very person she called her best friend.

Bode, Lizzie and herself were inseparable back then in college. They had met on the first day of registration and had become very close since then. It made sense to celebrate her engagement together, so Lizzie suggested they go to the club. That sly devil... How could she have known that he had feelings for her. Sometimes she tried to tell myself that it was the alcohol but she knew it wasn't true. Bode knew what he was doing, when he asked her to accompany him home. Of course, she trusted him. He was her best friend. So dropping Lizzie off, she went along with him.

"Hey, so what is this thing you wanted to discuss?" She asked when they got to his place. She was already feeling exhausted.

"Uhm... Why don't you relax. Let me get you a drink."

"Ok... Just water though. I'm perched."

He brought the water and she drank, while he continued to stare at her.

"Grace you are beautiful, you know that right?"

"Well... I think so," she wasn't expecting that question. "What has that got to do with anything"

"It has everything to do with it," His sudden change of tone alarmed me. "Grace I love you. From the very first time we met. I just couldn't tell you how I felt and now it's too late," He moved to sit close to her on the bed, and held her hand.

She was shocked.

"Bode, why didn't you tell me earlier..."

"I tried to. But you were already seeing that bastard. Hestole you from me..."

"Shut up, Jide is not a bastard." She yelled.

"Yes he is... And you were sleeping with him. It killed me to see the two of you together. And now, you are getting married to him..."

She could no longer understand what he was saying. Her head had begun to spin and soon she realized that she had been drugged. It was too late, when she woke up naked the next morning and Bode was no where in sight. He had raped her. A month later, she found out she was pregnant. Her wedding to Jide was few weeks away. She could not tell him, because she loved him so much and she was scared to lose him.

Her thoughts brought her back to the present. Her son Jr was now six years old. It dawned on her that she had been living a lie these past years. Now that lie had finally caught up with her.

She picked up her son from school. Jr had been her consolation ever since the incident. It was true that she thought of abortion but she could never bring herself to do it. However, she could not deny the fact that he always reminded her of her past. A past that was now lurking around the corner and waiting to rear its ugly head. No. She had to do something. She won't allow her perfect life to crumble just like that. But what could she do? So deeply engrossed was she in her thoughts that she did not see the truck coming towards her. It was too late.

(Part two)

When she surfaced, it took her a while to orient herself to her surroundings. She was in the hospital. Oh God... The accident. Her son. She tried to move but she could not. She could not feel her legs. "My baby, please where is my son!" The nurse rushed to her quickly, trying to stabilize her while she called the doctor. "Grace. Thank God you are awake." It was her husband. He had a look of relief and she could see that he had been crying.

"Jr. Where is Jr?" "He is alive".

The doctor said "but his condition is critical. He needs surgery immediately. Sir please can I see you in my office?" At the doctor's office, Jide was a mess. He was in a meeting when he received a call to come to the hospital. What would he do if he lost his family? The doctor had said that Jr needed blood urgently. Of course he and opted to donate. Now the doctor was saying that he was not a match. His blood group was B positive while Jr was A positive. It was not possible that he was the father of the Child. He just could not understand. " But doctor, that can't be possible. Jr is my son." "I am sorry sir, but the test results don't agree". The doctor said "however, we would get blood from our blood bank, don't worry sir."

PART THREE

Two months after the accident, a young man walked into Jide Olabode Consultancy and Law firm. The receptionist was at the desk. "Good day madam," he had this smile that knocked women off their feet. The receptionist was spell bound. "What can I do for you today sir?" She said smiling. "Please I'd like to see Barr Jide". "Do you have an appointment sir?" She asked politely. "Yes, he is expecting me," he lied. "Ok then... Let me put a call through to inform him that you are here Mr..." "Bode... Bode Johnson. But it's ok. You don't have to. Just show me to his office". So the bastard son of a gun had indeed become a big time lawyer. Jide Olabode Consultancy... Fancy name too. One would expect things to turn out quite fine for the pair, seeing as he bumped into Grace the other day. She wasn't looking bad at all. He expected her to react the way she did. He wasn't surprised. Of course he had been watching her all these years. He knew the child was his. Lizzie had confirmed it. Now it was time for him to take back what rightfully belonged to him and he would do that by all means necessary. Jide was ending a call when Bode walked in. " "...we will meet with the client by 4:00pm. Yes. Yes. Thank you very much. See you then." He hung up. "Bode Johnson. Oh my God. It has been a while. What a surprise." He got up to greet his guest. " So how have you been man... Please have a sit." Bode sat down on a very exquisite chair facing Jide. " I have been very well thank you. How has been your family. I bumped into your wife few months ago and she wasn't looking bad" "Yea.. thank God they are doing fine after the accident." "Accident... Oh my God how bad was it? And my son ... Is he ok" Bode did not know there had been an accident. "He is ok... Sorry did you say your son? " Jide asked surprised. "Oh... Of course. He is my son. I came here to tell you that I want him back." "What! Are you out of your mind?"- Jide asked, perplexed as well as angry.

"No. I am not and if I were you I would go back home and ask my wife to explain. I have all the evidence to back up my claim and I will fight you with everything I have. Have a good day Jide Olabode" Bode said, leaving the office. "Bode. Bode come back here...." Jide shouted, standing up. It was no use.

“Your time is limited, so don’t waste it living someone else’s life.” -Steve Jobs

PART 4

A very angry and confused Jide found his way back home that evening. Grace was not expecting it to happen so soon. Finally, her entire world was crashing down on her. “If you love yourself, you had better start talking woman. Who is Jr’s father” Jide barked at her

“I. I can explain... I can explain please Jide”

“Alright. I am listening” “I was raped. Before our wedding. Bode raped me. “

“What!”

“I couldn’t tell you about it because I was scared of losing you. I could not bear the thought of losing you,” she sobbed.

“I know i can’t justify this ... Letting you live a lie. I deserve anything you may decide to do to me but please find a place in your heart to forgive me. Please”

Jide was broken.

But why didn’t she tell him. He loved her and no matter what, he would still stand by her . Now he was on the verge of losing his son. To a rapist. He could not understand why Bode chose to be so callous and evil. No. He would not let this wickedness destroy his home. His wife may have lied to him but he knew she did it out of fear. He knew it was as a result of the weakness in her humanity. After all, she was only human and we all make mistakes. But could he say the same thing for Bode? Was bode just acting out his frailty of being helplessly human or had evil truly taken root in his heart? Jide needed time to think this through Grace was living a shadow of the life she was used to. Her husband had become distant. Yes, he may have said he had forgiven her but she knew he would never forget. This lie had torn at the core of her family. It had shaken her at her roots, but thankfully, she had not been uprooted.

Somehow, the entire events of the past weeks had taught her a lesson she would never forget in a hurry. She had come to understand that the human nature was weak and helpless, it’s cravings sometimes insatiable. It was these cravings that pushed friends to hurt friends and blood to betray blood. Bode had hurt her. But she had hurt herself more by trying to run away from the truth. The simple truth about the pains of being human. The fact that people hurt each other, but there is always room for forgiveness. Unless she faced her past and dealt with it, she would never have a happy future.

PART 5

Bode had just finished speaking to his lawyer about the court case. It seemed all was in his favour. His son would son come home to him. The wicked smile on his face continued to linger even as he watched the little boy at the corner of the street. He was so tattered and malnourished. He held a plate in his hand, begging for alms.

“Please sir can you spare some change”,

The boy asked. He was about the same age as Jr

“What is your name boy,” asked Bode, dipping his hand into his pocket for some currency notes. “And why are you out here on the street?

Where is your mother?”

“Sir my name is Kamal. I don’t have anywhere to go to... My mother abandoned me”

“What? Why...”

PAINS OF HUMANITY

CONCLUSION

"She said I was her biggest misfortune. You see my father was an armed robber. He raped her and she gave birth to me. She hates me so much..." Tears began to gather in his eyes.

Bode felt the guilt hit him hard. This could have been his son.

"Alright. Don't cry. Do you have a place to stay? Food..."

"No. Ok let's go get you something to eat Kamal".

Few days later, Bode had called his lawyer to withdraw the case.

"But sir are you sure? I am almost positive that we would win" said the Barrister, confused.

"No. Caleb. Just call it off ok. I won't push through with the case anymore. That boy is better off where he is. Besides, i don't think I'll make a great dad and he needs his mother. Grace would never agree to come with me. She hates me".

"Ok. If you say so".

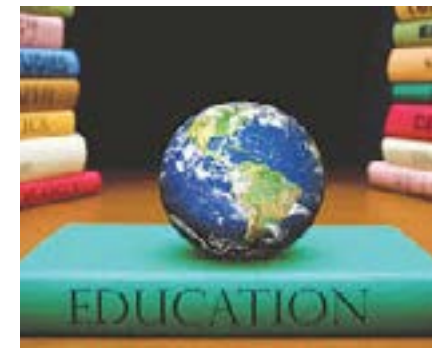

The change had come on him slowly, these few weeks since his meeting with Kamal. He had decided to adopt the boy, and all the necessary processes were underway. But he knew deep down that there was still something missing. He would never be completely free, until he had made his peace with Grace. He picked up his phone to place the call.

Few hours later, Bode was on his way to the airport. The events that took place a few hours back kept running through his mind. He never anticipated that things would go so smoothly as planned. Grace had forgiven him. He knew they would never be friends, but he was contented to have her forgiveness.

That was a starting point for him.

He had been weak, and he had allowed his weakness to override his better judgement. He knew he could never forgive himself, for his mistakes. At least , not anytime soon. But then again, he was happy to be given a second chance to become better.

He would not waste this opportunity. Kamal, would have a better life. He would ensure that. He would make sure that the little boy grows up into a strong young man someday. One who would be able to cope with his weaknesses and the inevitable pains of his

EDUCATION IS NOT JUST KNOWLEDGE BUT WEALTH

"I didn't get there by wishing for it or hoping for it, but by working for it." -Estée Lauder

Knowledge is wealth not just power. The wealth of knowledge acquired by an individual after studying a particular subject, matters or experiencing life lessons, that provide an understanding of something that we know as education. Education requires instruction of some sort from an individual or composed literature.

This might look hard for you to understanding, let me put it this way "Education is one of the source of wealth and power". There is a need for further, in-depth exploration of the factors, or drivers, that determine young people's interest in, there is a need for education to every young soul. Education in its general sense is a form of learning in which the knowledge, skills, and habits of a group of people are transferred from one generation to the next through teaching, training, or research. Education involves engaging with others and to the world.

When talking about education people often confuse it with schooling. Many think of places like schools or colleges when seeing or hearing the word. Reading a book and understanding what you read, does not mean that you have been educated (or permanently changed), if you don't integrate what you read into your attitudes and memory. Reading a book and understanding what you read, does not mean that you have been educated (or permanently changed), if you don't integrate what you read into your attitudes and memory. Similarly, attending a course and hearing a lecture doesn't mean you have changed or been educated.

Education, as we understand it here, is a process of inviting truth and possibility, of encouraging and giving time to discovery.

Learning is both a process and an outcome. The process of education flows from a basic orientation of respect – respect for truth, others and themselves, and the world. It is an attitude or feeling which is carried through into concrete action, into the way we treat people. Sadly, in today's world, people want to fast track everything: but learning is something that cannot usually be fast tracked. Without no argument education is the basic foundation of good moral, truth, direction and insight. That is why I defined it as wealth and power and not just knowledge because it is not an ordinary knowledge of a thought but a deeper meaning of life and how to go about life, understanding issues of life and ways to break forth. The most important stage of life is early stage of education.

CHILD EDUCATION

All children have the right to develop their personality, talents and abilities to their fullest potential. A child begin to learn about the world around them from a very early age, including during the prenatal, perinatal (immediately before and after birth) and postnatal period.

Children's early experiences are the bonds they form with their parents and their first learning experiences which deeply affect their future physical, cognitive, emotional and social development. This simply explains that a child first tutoring ground starts from home.

Home education is the first child education. A need learns from the mother womb and after birth they start learning from the home how to speak, which language to speak, what character to possess, a way of life which is his or her culture and life morals.

Optimizing the early years of children's lives is the best investment we can make as a society in ensuring their future success.

WHAT IS CHILD EDUCATION

Early Childhood Education is a term that refers to educational programs and strategies geared toward children from birth to the age of eight. Early childhood education is super important because the brain develops so quickly between the ages of zero to eight. Also, numerous research articles have shown that a strong early childhood education has a significant impact on the rest of one's life. Learning is the process of absorbing new information in a meaningful way and putting it to use. Children and young adults learn a large portion of their knowledge at school.

"Being good in business is the most fascinating kind of art. Making money is art and working is art and good business is the best art." -Andy Warhol

WHY IS CHILD EDUCATION SO IMPORTANT IN OUR COMMUNITY

As a community, we should give insurance for a better tomorrow, security, learning, and in particular great qualities. On the off chance that we can assist our childhood with becoming positive and drawing in individuals from society, this will just help in creating, a more grounded and more beneficial community, as well as a more secure one also.

While thinking about the forming of our future generations, we should look seven generations back and seven generations ahead. It is essential to regard our past as far as how we were raised and how we can create past lessons to guarantee that our future is developing too. It is vital to push these qualities and to make a way for future generations to pursue.

A key factor in keeping up these qualities, once more, is education. As a community, we need to see our children develop into solid pioneers to create and support our community further. Education and the significance of seeking after post-auxiliary education is essential to the improvement of our children and the community. Nonetheless, there are numerous hindrances that constrain access to post-optional education, particularly in the native areas, for example, the expense to seek after post-auxiliary education, proficiency for application forms for these assets, absence of trust in the advantages of assets, lack of financial resources, absence of soundness, and additionally numerous others.

Education helps to enhance a child self-esteem. It improves their attitude about school. It Increases consistent attendance at school, creating a school to home connection. It help a child recognize his/her potentials, unlocking them to the world of knowledge to explore greatly.

SAY YES TO A GIRL CHILD EDUCATION.

This is part of my life story.

I can remember when my parents made the decision to give me the best education as a girl. It was a big battle between my parents and my uncles yes because I am a girl child, their reason was that as a girl child my parents don't really have to waste their money to send me to a better school. They said to my parents "Haa abroad, so you are going to waste your money sending this girl to an international school abroad" "this is waste of money woman" They said to my mom. They included by trying to convince my mom that I will go there and become a way world child because I will be too exposed to life. I will become pregnant before the time of marriage. I sell out my body if they can't keep up to my upkeep and at the end of the day, I will be married out and everything will end in the kitchen. This was because they have the ideology that a girl education is a total waste and should not be considered as much as a boy education.

Seeing me today made them believe that girl education is as important as sending a boy to school and to the best one indeed. Abolishing the idea of a male child is born to be productive in life while the female child is born to be productive only in the kitchen just to serve her husband and become the best housewife to the family.

With my little experience I stand to say a BIG YES TO GIRL EDUCATION. A girl child deserves every great fortune a male child gets too. She should not get a poor education because she is a female child, she should not be treated as one who is less productive in the community. Around the world, girls face barriers to education that boys do not. But educating girls can break cycles of poverty in just one generation. These statistics offer insights on those barriers, and also illustrate the lasting impact education has on girls, families, communities and nations around the world. Some girls must work to help their families, or stay home to care for younger siblings. Other girls simply don't have the money for educational fees or school uniforms.

SAY YES TO A GIRL CHILD EDUCATION.

Reasons :

- Poverty
- Gender Discrimination
- Lack Of Education
- Traditional Practices
- Future Speculations(Education, Marriage, Dowry, etc)

Parents and communities may not understand the importance and benefits of girls' education, or schools may not be safe places, especially for girls and other children that experience marginalization. Early marriage practices may keep girls out of school too.

Girls and boys have the right to education. The world today should work to get a girl child into school, make sure they stay in school and supports their academic success by promoting an equitable school environment that encourages learning for both girls and boys.

Why should the society stand strong to yes to girls education. A girl education expands Literacy. 163 million unskilled youth over the globe, about 63 percent are female. Offering all children education will prop up proficiency rates, pushing forward improvement in battling areas. Here are currently 31 million girls of primary school age that are not in school. A girl in an underdeveloped country mostly in most Africa countries is more likely to be sexually abused than to attend high school and 1 in 9 girls in the developing world are married before the age of 15.

“Don’t ask if your dream is crazy, ask if it’s crazy enough.”
-Lena Waithe

There are 4 million more girls out of school than boys and 3 countries have over a million girls not in school. There are 774 million illiterate people in the world and two-thirds are female.

To many these are just numbers on a page, but for 31 million girls it's a harsh reality. In 2018, statistics like these are unfathomable, and quite simply unacceptable. Today we have the resources and the ability to eradicate these realities once and for all. The time has come to speak out and fight for our girl's education, and we want you to know why.

It help to reduce the rate of human trafficking. We all know that Women are most defenseless against trafficking when they are undereducated and poor, as indicated by the United Nations Inter-Agency Project on Human Trafficking. Through furnishing young ladies with circumstances and basic aptitudes, this billion-dollar industry can be essentially undermined.

Safe Sex: A girl who finishes grade school is three times less inclined to contract HIV. In light of these insights, The World Bank considers education a “window of expectation” in keeping the spread of AIDS among the present children.

An education girl have a sense of good family planning and makes her make a good decision of marriage. It Increased support in school lessens ripeness rates after some time. In Mali, ladies with auxiliary education or higher have a normal of three children. Partners with no education have a normal of seven children.

A girl education help to nourish the country's GDP: Gross residential item likewise takes off when the two girls and young men are being offered educational chances. At the point when 10 percent more ladies go to class, GDP increments by three percent by and large.

When ladies are furnished with equivalent rights and equivalent access to education, they proceed to take part in business and monetary movement. Expanded acquiring force and wage battle against present and future poverty through sustaining, garments and accommodating whole families which reduces poverty in the family and community.

LET STAND TO SUPPORT THIS MOVEMENT BY SENDING A GIRL CHILD TO SCHOOL.

HUMANS FOR HUMANITY'S SAKE

Enjoy the journey and try to get better every day. And don't lose the passion and the love for what you do.
Nadia Comaneci

One of the most exciting decisions just anyone can make in life is to be on the lookout for opportunities to invest in others because there wouldn't have been breathe given to anyone if it is not of that which reflects existing for each other.

It is often said that “Life is in phases while Men are in sizes” as it even greatly sponsors the need to be of help knowing that your next door neighbor sincerely cannot be equated to you.

A friend of mine who just graduated from the university and started work which involved supplying drugs, saw that his neighbor's child was not attending school, took it upon himself to address the situation by putting her in school even if he didn't have much. Today that little girl is in school and excelling, it might not be the best school but he has restored hope to that young lad and her family.

The scriptures said in Proverb 19:17, He that gives to the poor, lends to the lord...

Can you imagine what great dividends will spring forth from that?

We often think that “the poor” referred to here only talks to places like the orphanage home so we tend to forget that person hungry living next door, the children in the streets etc.

I noticed most times many persons fear that after giving, there won't be enough left for themselves forgetting “the law of seed time and harvest”

A seed that is hoarded never yields any fruits unless it be planted.

Give and it shall be given unto you, good measures, pressed down, shaken together, and running over...

This greatly signifies just as Zig Ziglar said “you will always have everything you want in life, if you will help enough people get what they want “as this is even what signifies SUCCESS in life because in INFLUENCE lies great AFFLUENCE that we never get to know.

We are and will always be surrounded by great causes in need of people, we have a lot of N.G.O's founded by a person or a group of people who saw a NEED and has decided to create a SOLUTION. But the challenge i see this days is competition even amongst this N.G.O's, if you discover that a solution via an N.G.O has been created to solve a NEED you wanted to solve, why not rather support and make it grow rather than wanting to be a founders and CEO's.

Each year nearly two million children are exploited in the global sex, what have you done about that? You can start teaching children around you about SEX EDUCATION which of course is hardly mentioned in our schools and churches.

John 15:12-13 recognizes how we can be at the front line for another.

12-This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you

13 - Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends. [KJV]

Jesus never died for a particular ZIP CODE, it was for everyone.

Upon that, when He was made flesh and came to earth.

- He preached the gospel to the poor
- Healed the broken-hearted
- Proclaimed liberty to the captives
- Set at liberty those who were oppressed
- Proclaimed the acceptable year of the lord

All of this just explains that COMPASSION (Practical love shown to people by being of help) is a consequence of SALVATION (set one free). So if Jesus could do that for you and I, He expects as His likeness, we both replicate same.

Jesus successfully carried out all of the above because He was passionate about what He was called to do, that is His purpose.

Friends, have you discovered your purpose in life?

Are you passionate about your purpose?

If not, you are actually far from investing in others because we all have been called for SOMETHING not EVERYTHING and if not discovered, the lives attached to be reached out to, through you will be at a failing point.

This write-up will not specifically talk about how to discover purpose but if you have not, you can reach out to us via the contacts but be rest assured that.

PURPOSE sponsors PASSION springs forth COMPASSION COM-PASSION is then a way to reach out as a HUMAN to HUMANITY.

Life should revolve around CARING about OTHERS, DARING for OTHERS, SHARING with OTHERS-William Ward.

Be the reason why someone would say, I did not give up.

God bless you.

MY LOVE FOR HUMANITY PART 2

The sound of heart beats

The dripping pile of melancholic emotions

The creaking sounds from dark alleys of the heart,

The banging words of loneliness

Eating through the soul,

Shall we all share this fate someday?

Will love no longer feed our souls with happiness?

Will kindness no longer spring from our soul's nest?

Will peace be a word?

Abandoned down memory lane?

Will this be humanity's fate tomorrow?

Let us elude this reality today!

We must choose to plant seeds of humane virtues,

We must not be mummified while we yet live,

We must not pass for corpse while we still breathe,

We must plant those seeds today!

Then, we can remind nations

That their greatest weapons of war Are not in their arsenals

But in their hearts!

For in the heart lies humanity's greatest weapon

In it lies the tender virtue of love

Strong enough to withstand the darting arrows of war.

Let our hearts lead us today.

Let us be humans today.

BY ENE OGABA

GAUTAMA BUDDHA

"No one saves us but ourselves.
No one can and no one may.
We ourselves must walk the path."

"Failure is an opportunity to grow"

GROWTH MINDSET

"I can learn to do anything I want"

"Challenges help me to grow"

"My effort and attitude determine my abilities"

"Feedback is constructive"

"I am inspired by the success of others"

"I like to try new things"

Sounds like a regular cliché and a subject of quite a handful of controversies, wait till you hear it all. As I sat in with him in my one-on-one session, those were the exact words that came from him to me. The first advice (or what else should I call it?) for the year. The events preceding the usual one-on-one I had with my boss was sufficient to make me want to turn in a resignation letter. Now, don't get any filthy thoughts up in your head, it was nothing sexual.

Before I get into that, permit me to divulge a bit of what happened in the office today.

MAN; THE ENEMY OF HIMSELF

The office setting is one I never thought I would ever be found in. As a young fresher then in school, I always envisaged having my own business and having people work for me. The 9 to 5 idea never had its way with me. But then, here I was, not just in a 9 to 5 but in 9 to 1am every other day. The office has seen a lot of people come and go in quick successions. My boss was notable for changing people like he did to his undies; literally that fast. So I had seen different crop of people come and go; the good, the bad and the ugly (you know how they say it) I had to sit, smile, fake it if I have to and even feign anger when necessary. My boss, he was the typical stereotype of a Nigerian boss. He barks much more than he bites. His anger can grow from 0 to 100 in just two seconds and he can say things that will break your very convictions of yourself. But amongst all, he has a very soft heart and can bring people very close to him. But it takes a lot of maturity to manage his extremes.

"Failure is limit of my ability"

FIXED MINDSET

"I'm either good at it or I'm not"

"My abilities are unchanging"

"I don't like to be challenged"

"I can either do it,
or I can't"

"My potential is predetermined"

"When I'm frustrated,
I give up"

"Feedback and criticism are personal"

"I stick to what I know"

ENEMY.

But today, today I cried. Yes, I cried because of a colleague. If only I had the time, I would have enumerated the issue that transpired. Very flimsy yet annoying, just an issue of misunderstanding. And yes, I was red with rage and my emotional outburst expressed itself in tears. I really do not know why my emotions are always expressed in anger but then, that's it. Oh! Were you thinking it was something else? Well, I just needed to say that for reasons I do not know anyways...

Significantly, I've seen myself grow and my capacity enlarge during my stay in the office. I can boldly say that my life has changed since I started working with my boss, got tons of stories and experiences, his excesses notwithstanding.

So, back to my one-on-one session. For the records, such session in my office is your time with the boss to give a full, detailed report of your achievements and contributions so far and perhaps you get the opportunity to air your concerns and challenges too. But then, he said those words to me because at the time, he was chasing a deal that was to pay a huge sum, having been running around the whole day for this deal, I was tired and ready to tuck in by 12am in the morning. Just then, my boss sent me a message to come for us to discuss profits but unfortunately, I was asleep. Later, I sent a reply saying that I was asleep when the message came and guess what my boss said to me, well now, you get your normal pay no commission.

Ehhhh! I went mad, after all the stress of running around? (You've got to be kidding me) Hmm so, I went to meet him and he starts by telling me, man is his own enemy, just at the point when a breakthrough was coming your way Lois, you slept off, you were not ready hellooo, I'm talking about some 9 figures here, what is he saying? Mttcchheeww (visibly uninterested)

As much as the situation at hand didn't appeal to me, there is still some truth in what he said, maybe not in this particular scenario but most times in life, we are our own enemy. We hinder ourselves from the opportunities life presents us with. It's a lesson life has compelled me to learning.

Life is filled with a lot of opportunities but most time, we are not ready to grab it. Seemingly due to poor preparation or being blind to these chances as they gracefully walk past us. Our readiness might be a consequence of the limitations of our mindset or environmental factors. But 90% of the time, it is a function of our mental limitations. Limitations we set due to our mindset, perspective and notions about the disparity of the existence or nonexistence of these ventures.

Ultimately, conquering yourself is greater than conquering a city or a full army. The first and biggest victory a man can achieve is victory over self. The moment we decide to go beyond what we feel and how we feel and surrender to the brutish hand of process, we would never arrive the plains of success and ultimate fulfilment, which is how we were designed to live. By default, every man is subject to a process if a wholesome product is going to be made out of what we sometimes tag 'insignificant'.

Most times, we are subdued by inconsequential excuses and capitulate to flimsy endearments that tether us to the past or holds us steadfast to the present without a continuous pull to the future. We were created to evolve; evolve from a level of thinking or a state of living to a higher point, blossoming and waxing until we reach the zenith of fulfilment and becoming. Trust me, that's how it's meant to be.

This, we must know that for us to excel in this path, we must have a lot of commitment, passion and conviction to against all odds, overcome our innate limitations whatever they maybe and rise to the crescendo of life. If it's by crawling, leaping or running, just make conscious efforts to make progress and not make excuses. Its worthy of note that sometimes however, life batters us with its vicissitudes.

And just like a sage said, the biggest enemy of man is his own self and to win over it he has to defeat himself; in the process he will hurt himself and each time he does it the feeling of pain will become less but the courage will get more with every victory. Out of this process a real man will be birthed who will be free of his own self and is armed with the pulsating desire to make a headway.

I hope you find YOU, so you don't become an enemy of yourself.

To your success beloved, I take a bow!

LOIS PETER

BE INTENTIONAL,
LEAVE AN INDELIBLE MARK!!!

Just like any other good subject, this one must be properly defined for the sake of clarity.

"Humanitarianism is an active belief in the value of human life, whereby humans practice benevolent treatment and provide assistance to other humans, in order to better humanity for moral, altruistic and logical reasons. It is the philosophical belief in movement toward the improvement of the human race in a variety of areas, used to describe a wide number of activities relating specifically to human welfare. A practitioner is known as a humanitarian (Wikipedia, 2018)"

Well this seem to be a very stuck up, bogus and not so clear definition afterall.

I personally believe we are all supposed to be active humanitarians and it doesn't take so much to be one, based on a passage from my favorite book, a practical example was given;

"For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me."

"Then the righteous will answer him, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you something to drink? When did we see you a stranger and invite you in, or needing clothes and clothe you? When did we see you sick or in prison and go to visit you?'"

"The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.' (Matthew 25:35-40, NIV)"

Now that the elephant in the room has been addressed.

It is clear that the little things count and that's all that entails us to be humanitarians in our own little way.

Doing things to make life better for our immediate environment, neighbors and even the future inhabitants of every place we abide make us humanitarians.

Many often think they need to reach a certain level of financial stability to take action but what is the guarantee that you'll be active then if you don't start now.

Usually, it must be a way of life, an intentionally inbuilt cultivation and need to do the right thing when it comes to living together and making earth and the world at large a better place. I would love to live in a better world and it starts with you and I, so, I challenge you today;

Be Intentional, leave an indelible mark!!!

RAPE

John 10 vs. 10

The thief comes to steal kill and destroy, But Jesus comes to give us life, and life in abundance.

The mission of satan our enemy is to steal from us, the children of God and so he has so many ways and keep coming up with new ways every day to achieve that, so it is our duty not to overlook his devices, so that we know when he is about to strike.

Rape is just one of his many strategies that he uses to steal from strong women, virtuous women and beautiful daughters of Zion, I said so because every lady, weather broken, failed, fulfilled, career driven, mums, wives, irrespective of our back ground culture or current position or profession we are all daughters of Zion and by so treat to the kingdom of darkness, thereof we are automatically a target to satan.

What is rape and how does it affects the victims and how can these victims overcome the pain and stigma that comes with it, all these questions I will try to answer in the article although there are no one size fit all answer to these questions as circumstances and environmental issues can make so many cases different your story is different from another woman's case. But surely these answers will be a direct guideline to recovering from rape.

Rape is any act of non-consensual sexual penetration. It doesn't matter if the victim was raped by force or only under duress, the crime is still rape.

I will share a real life story of a rape survivor, I had promised not to share her real name and location for privacy purposes, so I will call her Mira, here's is Mira's story,

"I was 18 years old when I first experience the pain and agony of rape, prior to that I made myself a promise not to have sex until the night of my wedding, I was so serious and keen to carry this out, little did I know that, that decision will make me a target by the enemy therefore I should guard myself with God's word. Rewind to that night, I had gone to visit a friend at her hostel in the university, where I met that her brother also came to visit her from the other city, we were all in the room when her boyfriend came in and then she stepped out with him, and now I am left alone with her brother (Evans). He said I was beautiful and gave me this look that got me really worried, I said I was leaving immediately, he rushed to the door closed it and held tight to the keys, I was ready to fight, I fought with him until he overpowered me, he was almost twice my height and weight, I couldn't fight him off, he forcefully took my virginity and did it three whole times, I screamed as loud as I could, but nobody came to my rescue, I cried, I hated myself, hated my friend (Sera) and even hated Evans more, I couldn't report to anyone as I was so scared of the stigma and shaming that comes with it, coming from a West Africa community, I checked myself into a hospital the next day, and I couldn't hold myself from crying, a young student doctor (Dr Kay) treated me, and said something, your body appeared to be too tight, please don't allow anybody do this to you anymore, because I had lied to him that it was my boyfriend, but am feeling pain.

Fast forward to 1 year later, I changed school and went to a new city to live with a relative, I was a bit relieved, I had high hopes, still very ambitious, but never allowed any man come close to me sexually, never even loved any guy, while living with my relative, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. Jones decided that I am more inviting than his wife, I would forcefully come to my room at the middle of the night, I was again too scared to speak, this time scared that my family would hate me and disown me, here again I very big mistake, if only I knew what I know now then, well this went on for a while, until I was tired of feeling defeated, I would just open up with a fight, I was dying inside, I lost every value for the word love, and I hated married men that won't stick to their wives rather looking for young broken women to break even the more, after two years I was finally able to find my way, but I was carrying this pain, this brokenness and this stigma everywhere. I couldn't keep a relationship and to be honest wasn't ready to fight for one, you see rape steals your dignity from that you can do anything to avoid loving any man.

What is Recovery?

HOW DO YOU RECOVER?

"10 And the God of all grace, who called you to his eternal glory in Christ, after you have suffered a little while, will himself restore you and make you strong, firm and steadfast."

2nd Peter 5 vs 10

Here is my recovery story, after some years I was on my way to another country where I met a lady in the plane that gave me a word, This changed everything for me, because I had gone from a promising young lady to an inspiring escort, all the contacts I had made prior to that word from a total stranger who knew nothing about me, I deleted and changed my plans, again not to allow any man take my body for granted for a price I AM NOT FOR SALE! Not even me, I respected my body even more, because I thought this must have something to do with my destiny, after sometime again yes the same problem shows up, but this time I broke the chains, I fought so hard and ran out of the place half naked, barefooted 2am. I said never again, this can't gage me anymore, from that moment I started to see myself the way God sees me and I started taking my recovery journey one day at a time.

Fast forward to 3 years after the enemy's last attempt I got married, to a wonderful man, every now and then the scar shows up but we overcome, during the delivery of my 1st baby, I met Dr Kay again, he was the gyno where I registered, he took the delivery of my first baby and said to me, you see how your life turned out at the end, thank God you took your pride back".

In Genesis 38 v 6 Tamar was in a situation that she didn't cause for herself, she made up her mind to come out of it, because she was going to be declared a cursed woman, since she didn't have any child for her late husband, but fought hard and broke the curse, so I am pleading to everyone that has been hurt by this horrible act of rape to get up and kick that pain out of their lives, it wasn't your fault, stop self-blaming, stop self-shaming, stop wishing you could change that day, you cannot, but what you can do is to change your today, change your mind set, forgive yourself, forgive the person, move on, love again, breathe again, dream again, and live life to its fullest. Trust God more, to protect you, Jesus has come so that you have life in abundance.

To all the broken women out there who might be going through some difficult time, who might be hurting their own body, who are now lesbians, sex workers, who are now very bitter and feels life has nothing better to offer, please see Mira's story has an inspiration and hope that you can still be who God created you to be, you can still achieve those dreams, you are beautiful strong and courageous, go out of that pain and start winning, take over your world, and be the very best of you. God bless you all. Shalom

PIGGY BANKING

What is the oldest form of saving money you know? As for me I remember my mum buying me this piggy bank made from clay with a very small hole on to, so that means it's a one way traffic, money only goes in since the hole is too tiny it's impossible to take back my money. The only way is to break it and I didn't have authorization to do that, only my mum did. Can you imagine? All with the sole purpose of teaching me the importance of saving I don't know about you but opening an account is pretty easy back home as long as you meet the requirement.

Once upon a Gambian lady, her name is withheld because of all the single guys out there.. As every reasonable individual she decided to open an account to "save" her money, well feeling like an old timer I told her what to do and I said it feeling like a "badass". I even followed her to the bank hoping everything will go smoothly but we got there and she was told to come back after three weeks. Isn't that just ridiculous? With letter from the school backing her validity, it just wasn't enough. How are we supposed to save money now? Go back to the old ways using piggy banks? Or keep money at home?

The sins of the father, how can we suffer for the mishap of others, funny things keep unveiling everyday but we don't do anything about it. How can we continually to be quiet to this human degradation, I have bought my own piggy bank anyways. Am thinking of starting a business of making piggy banks since we can no longer use banks.

All these been said if you cannot buy a piggy bank just hire a goal-keeper, so he will help you "save your money". Our voices must be heard. Every child should have a piggy bank if their parent can afford it.

EXPLORE AFRICA

Africa is a very large continent, second largest and second most populous. Africa has over fifty countries, different ethnicities, different beliefs, norms and languages. Africa is very blessed with a lot of resources. It's funny that some people believe South Africans or Tunisians, Egyptians and other sorts as such are not part of Africa. Africa is blessed with beautiful green pasture...

The animal inhabitants of Africa are amongst the most varied and beautiful in the world. Most of us know that Africa is home to the magnificent giraffe and the impressive cheetah. However, there is also a wider range of animals that live in Africa. Beauty of continent Africa cut across features ranging from animals, to desert, plants, trees, mountains large lakes and Nile with diverse individuals with thousands different languages between them. Amazingly, Nigeria examining her impact in Africa has been considered THE GIANT OF AFRICA

Enough education, maybe we should all start carrying signboards with our countries names on it. To all my African "abangs" out there and the beautiful sisters out there ONE LOVE, ONE AFRICA. Are you representing well?

TRY TO VISIT AFRICA MOST ESPECIALLY NIGERIA.

Every problem has in it the seeds of its own solution. If you don't have any problems, you don't get any seeds. Norman Vincent Peale

ANOTHER MAN'S PROBLEM IS YOUR WEALTH

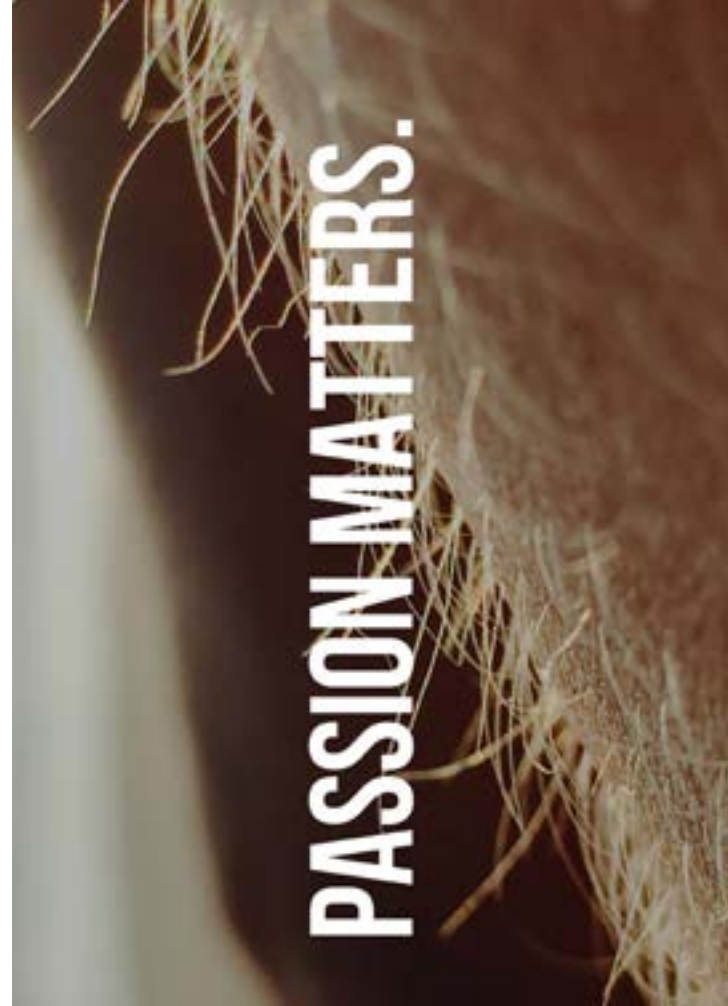

I have realized that what we ignore can be our starting point in making it in life. I have observed my life and how I always want the best satisfaction for myself. And sometimes I can go all out just to make myself happy and save myself from stress and inconvenience.

For instance, like going to my embassy to do something and after getting there they tell you to come back again that you are still missing something. To me, this is a problem. This can make someone go insane. I can go all out just to get the necessary information and don't mind paying for it.

As a student, what if I finish my assignment late and before I get to the printing shops they are close for the day. And I have to submit my assignments and there are so many like me by tomorrow morning. Which means the queue will be lengthy. So what if I save up some money and get my own printer, 3 in one. It can scan as well, which is quite cheap to buy this days (thank God for China) and solve my problem as well as other students. In the modern world they call it "freelance" cheap and affordable. Time saved. Problem solved. You can imagine how many problems "our problems" that need attention. Best of Luck as you discover your wealth.

DAVID DAKORU

PASSION CAN TAKE YOU THERE

Everyone has a passion for something but we tend to neglect it because to us we might say who cares or it won't take us anywhere. Passion for something can lead you to your wealth. Passion is like a little baby that needs to grow into adulthood by nurturing, believing and tender care. People's passion for something can drive them to becoming the best in what they do. I have noticed that most people that made it in life was because of what they loved doing for instance, Mark Zuckerberg, owner of Facebook, Leslie Wexner, present owner of Victoria Secret. The former owner was late Roy Raymond. It is quite strange that a man came up with that. Well, that is what happens when you find your passion. Each industry has the own giants that made it through passion and belief. It is always the best when you love what you do and you are being paid for it. It is even more exciting when you are your own boss. The common fact is that your wealth is within you not outside. Look inside hold on to the thing you love most and generate it to your wealth. If you don't have a passion for something, then it means your problem is not of from Earth (LOL). Go for it as you run with your passion, you never know when the world will be at your fingertips.

INTERVIEW WITH THE FIRST AFRICAN AIR HOSTESS (AIR ASIA)

What is your name?

Lilly Rukoro

2. How old are you? 26

3. What do you enjoy doing best?

Sleeping ha-ha but seriously I enjoy sleeping not only because it comes with the very demanding schedule but in general I sleep a lot (probably up to 15hrs a day).... Aside from that I enjoy doing Yoga and meditation. I read and enjoy writing as well. I'm big on community service so I (in my spare time) love to visit old age homes, orphanages or refugee camps to try and educate, give and spend time when and where I can. It's a very selfless act that has such a huge priceless reward.

Also I enjoy doing modeling and learning new languages (I can hold an actual conversation in about 6 different languages and I'm still working on 4 more) and of course indulging in musical instruments.

To be honest it's an honor first and foremost... But genuinely speaking when I first set out to make this dream come true I wasn't looking to be titled or labeled as anything but being a flight attendant.

But now that I am the first African crew flying for the world's best low cost airline... It's a very proud feeling (but not in a cocky way at all) in the sense that I managed to achieve something others weren't able to break through. It's a very humbling feeling too. And I feel I've opened doors for fellow Africans to try and make a cut into the industry.

5. How did you break the grounds to get to this destination?

I would say that it all boils down to 3 things... Firstly God who made things happen

Secondly timing and patience - one thing most people need to understand is you can be all pumped up about achieving something, having the right resources the right attitude everything but if the timing is not right it'll not fall into place just yet. And of course having the patience to sit back and watch things fall into place.

Lastly - you and your efforts. One needs to be able to invest in their dreams and in themselves in order to ensure they are set on the right path to get to where they want to be.

For e.g. in my case... I tried So many other airlines before this and got rejected each time. Those failed experiences are what taught me that "what if this isn't GODs timing for you yet? What if God is purposely closing those other doors/opportunities in your face because he is busy preparing a much bigger and better opportunity for you?"

That taught me that patience and timing is everything. No matter how ready and prepared I was. Everything will happen when it's meant to.

6. Did you pay any sacrifice at all? And what was this sacrifice.

Oh definitely I mean nothing worth having comes easy. At the time when I was still preparing myself to be "industry worthy" (by that I mean ensuring that when I go for interviews I have the necessary set of skills required to get the job) I was working a full time job with another airline, and I also enrolled myself to a 3 months cabin crew preparation course (CCAKL)

Which meant I'd pull a 9 hour nightshift and go to a 6 hour class after that shift... At the end of the day I only slept maximum 5hours a day for 3 months straight. It was torturous and very emotionally and mentally draining.

Not to mention the financial sacrifices in terms of the academy fees and transportation to and from.

But looking back at the journey I took, it was absolutely worth it.

7. What is your life inspiration and Aspiration?

I'd say both my inspiration and aspirations leads back to my dear mother... There is nothing I'd like more than to make her proud and ensure she lives a very comfortable life in her retirement. She has sacrificed so much for my siblings and I and it's only fair that I give back in some way. Also, I aspire to be part of some kind of community servicing organization, maybe run an adoption center or orphanage/elderly home someday. Children and the elderly are very dear to me and thus in my future plans I'll definitely work on building something that will benefit them, of course among other things.

8. Have you ever look at your life as a role model to your generation.

I believe we each possess something that the next person (regardless of age) may look up to and deem that particular attribute as "role model" material for them.

I often have people reaching out to me in aspiration, asking for advice on pretty much anything ranging from fashion, modeling, skincare, hair, crew life, things I've gone through and achieved etc... Because they see me as their role model to a certain extent. So I believe that I am a role model to somebody out there who looks up to me and aspires to be like me or achieve something great too.

I do however advice anyone who approaches me on that role model topic that they need to aspire to be the version of themselves and not somebody else. You can be inspired by someone else yes, but most importantly is to aspire to be a better version of yourself, then only will you do yourself justice.

9. What advice do you have to the young people?

Nothing comes easy. You need to learn to put up a fight for what u believe in.

Invest in yourself by reading as many books as you can, research, be curious.

Go out there, the world is your oyster so go see what it has to offer... Remember never ever let anyone look down on you or your dream... If they do, go after everything they said you couldn't have.

Above all, remain humble, be helpful (even if you need help yourself, its ok)

10. Is this your life dream or is there more to come.

In this big wide world filled with so many opportunities why settle after reaching the top of a valley when you can enjoy the entire view at the mountain top and probably even touch a cloud or two???

Yes this is my dream job and I'm ever so grateful and humbled living this dream but this is just the beginning. This is just me laying down the foundation, I haven't started building just yet. But again all in alignment with God's purpose and will for my life of course.

It's not polite to refuse to dress for a party. It's an insult to your hostess. After all, correct dress is a part of good manners.

CONVERTING LIFE STRUGGLE TO SUCCESS

Although we may not have control when hardship hits but yeah we do have control over how it affects us. Difficulties will always arise, still the true measure of a strong woman lies on how she comes back from the adversity and struggles thereby never accepting defeat no matter what huge situation it might be. It's okay to be down; we all fall but just make sure as courageous as you are get up stronger. Sometimes writing about life issues is a powerful and an emotional way to comfort them but be optimists in every setback or reversal rather blaming yourself on the past experiences. Welcome any adversity that pushes you to your limits and beyond there you will end up being capable far more than you can imagine.

When you channel your circumstances into positivity then you see it as a catapult rather than a weight. Women we sure need to stop complaining, appreciate what you have and what is going on at the current, I bet you the rest will work out itself.

AGAPE-NORA EDITION

Another point am going to talk about-Be a life savior.

As a woman are you a life savior? Being a life savior I don't mean you as an individual entering a caring profession such as mental health care or someone whose personality characteristics is drawn to saving lives for variety reasons. But rather my intentions here are in the diverse of family, health wise, financial wise etc.

A woman who is a life savior is tremendously courageous. She has the ability to be there for those who needs her; someone who don't duck out of things when its gets tough. Someone who have the courage to extend self-assistances to others. Well, it really hurts me seeing women in this 21st century who waiting for everything to be fixed for their own comfort ability. Categorically I classify them uncourageous.

The most powerful measure of a woman's strength is the degree at which she supports people around her. In the family are you always there to look out for the wellbeing of the family? What financially support do you render when it comes to hard times or do you just sit back for everything to be built on your comfort? Question comes for how long? Being a life savior determines you providing financial support to the family, making sure the children necessary provisions are intact not waiting for the husband to take full responsibilities .Another is making sure the family are always at their healthy condition, not caring less and only focusing on jobs, social life but yeah also paying attention to health.

Women let's get motivated, connected, inspired, lets show the future women they sure have a lot to offer to the world. Keep being loving, courageous, opinionated and think about how different the world could be if we do realize the strength in us.

FASHION: THE YOUNG ENTREPRENEUR

My name is Ezinne Ibe O.

I'm a fashion designer and costume designer. I run a fashion brand named I.B.E (Iridescence by Ezinne). Coincidentally, I.B.E is also my surname when pronounced as a word. My business is based in Nigeria.

Most times, my brand is referred to as Ibe Tribal. This is because we majorly employ the use of indigenous African pieces when creating and crafting our designs which results to tribal clothing pieces fused with contemporary designs. The aim is to showcase the expertise of the African craftsmen as well as create pieces that can be worn anywhere in the world.

I started my clothing journey in 2013, as a young under-graduate who just loved clothes.. Initially, I had wanted to be a fashion blogger. However, with time, I got fascinated by the twists, turns and artful expertise involved in making a piece of clothing. Several episodes of 'Project Runway' later, I fell in love with fashion designing.

Soon enough, I took basic sewing lessons from my mother and started making my own dresses. I had wanted to keep it that way, but the happiness and satisfaction that always showed on the faces of my friends inspired me to venture into clothes making as a profit making entity. I got to learn more skills from the internet and it's been worth it.

Basically, I gain satisfaction from the happiness I see on a client's face, way above the money I make. Knowing that I'm one of the reasons why a bride's is happier on her day, or a graduate's grin is wider or a girl insecure about her body receives several compliments is a major win for me. This is why I go out of my way to make sure every piece of clothing I make is perfect for the wearer. Several challenges usually come up, especially with a field as competitive as the fashion industry. However, a little push in the right direction is enough to get you back on track. This is why mentorship is very vital in every aspect of life...whether it's direct or not, but having someone to guide you especially in your chosen career or business path is necessary. There are times when decision making proves to be difficult... But we should be strong enough to know what's good for us and stand by it, even when it seems very challenging.

Don't be scared of change, of growth... You can't always lay back and bask in your comfort zone... It takes a great deal of determination and going the extra mile to achieve something spectacular. So, if it will do you good, go ahead and do it. There's really no barrier except the ones we choose to see. Everyone has the strength to conquer anything we set our minds to. So, take that bold step, write that proposal, expand that business...your strong enough...you can do it. I'm 24 by the way, and I am not too young.

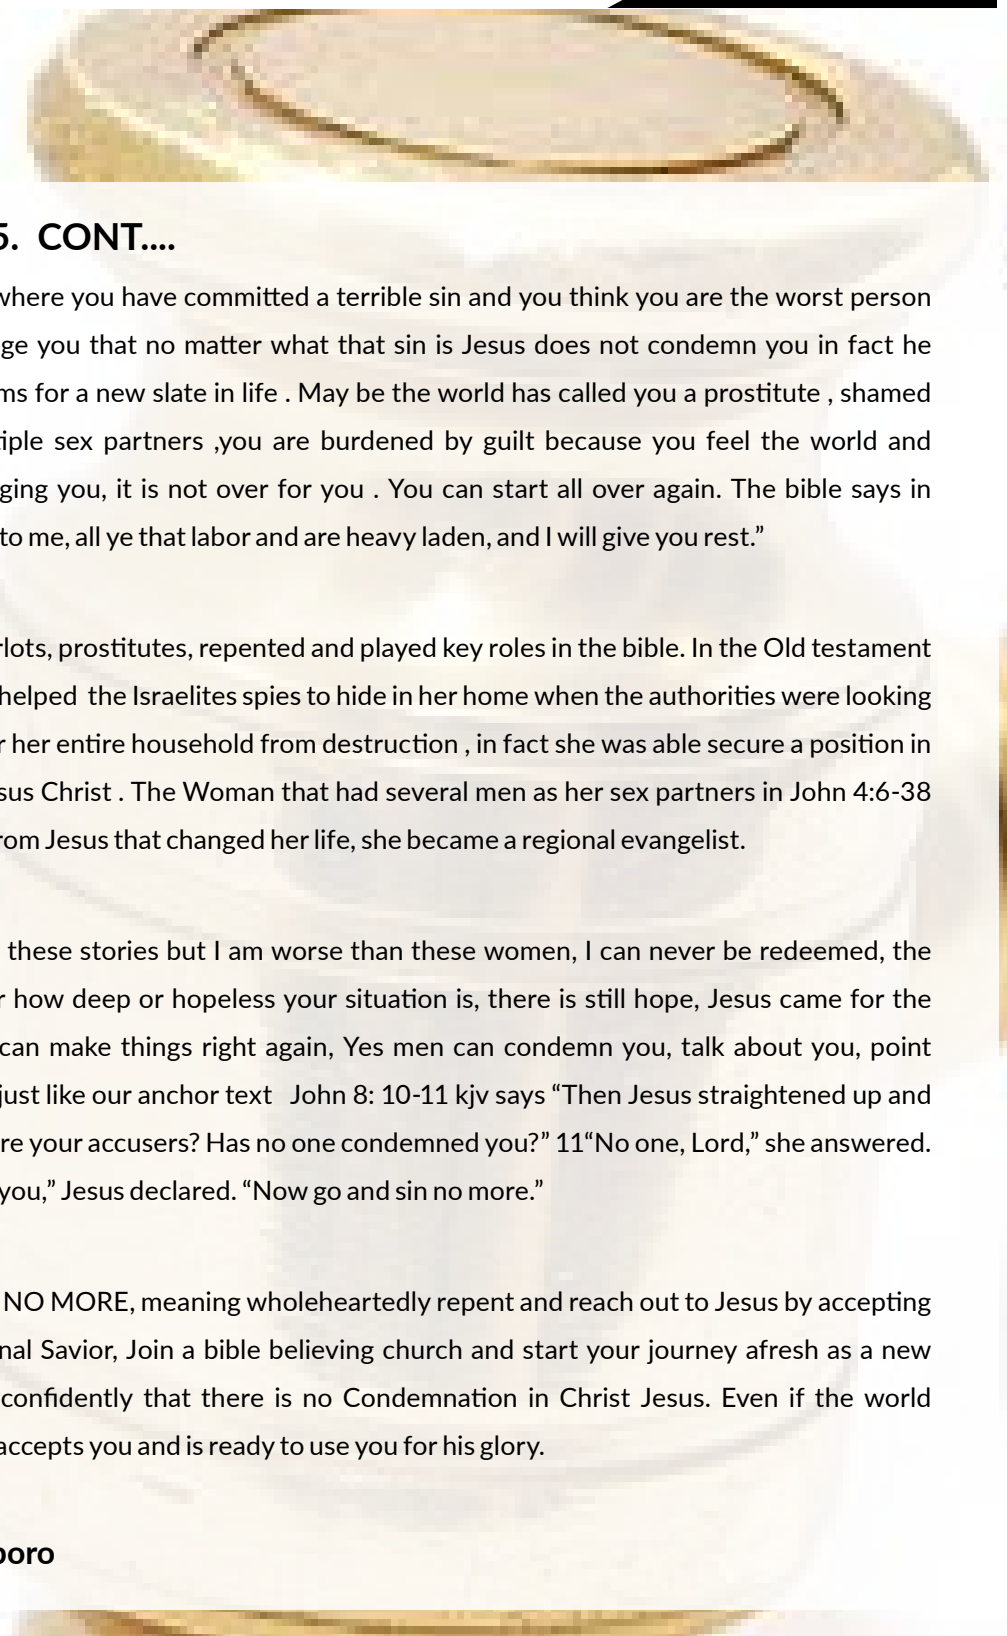

NO CONDEMNATION

TEXT: JOHN 8: 3-15.

The summary of the text above, describes a woman that was accused of adultery and condemned to death by stoning and how Jesus saved her from condemnation. In our society today women are majorly subjects of condemnation. My question from the above text is why was the woman the only one condemned to death for a sin that involved both her and her male partner?

You might be in a situation where you have committed a terrible sin and you think you are the worst person on earth, I want to encourage you that no matter what that sin is Jesus does not condemn you in fact he welcomes you with open arms for a new slate in life . May be the world has called you a prostitute , shamed you for having one or multiple sex partners ,you are burdened by guilt because you feel the world and everyone around you is judging you, it is not over for you . You can start all over again. The bible says in Mathew 11:28 kjv "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Women who were called harlots, prostitutes, repented and played key roles in the bible. In the Old testament Joshua 2:2 Rehab "a harlot" helped the Israelites spies to hide in her home when the authorities were looking for them , was able to deliver her entire household from destruction , in fact she was able secure a position in the bloodline of our Lord Jesus Christ . The Woman that had several men as her sex partners in John 4:6-38 received a divine visitation from Jesus that changed her life, she became a regional evangelist.

You might say I know about these stories but I am worse than these women, I can never be redeemed, the good news is that no matter how deep or hopeless your situation is, there is still hope, Jesus came for the hopeless situations and he can make things right again, Yes men can condemn you, talk about you, point accusing fingers at you. But just like our anchor text John 8: 10-11 kjv says "Then Jesus straightened up and asked her, "Woman, where are your accusers? Has no one condemned you?" 11 "No one, Lord," she answered. "Then neither do I condemn you," Jesus declared. "Now go and sin no more."

Jesus is saying GO AND SIN NO MORE, meaning wholeheartedly repent and reach out to Jesus by accepting him as your Lord and personal Savior, Join a bible believing church and start your journey afresh as a new Daughter of Zion knowing confidently that there is no Condemnation in Christ Jesus. Even if the world accuses you, our Lord Jesus accepts you and is ready to use you for his glory.

Hallelujah!!!!

GODLY PARENTING

As we all know, children are the heritage of God while parents are the ordained minders to whom God as given the divine parenting assignment that is godly parenting.

Parenting is an assignment that is never ending. God expects you, as parents, to bring forth godly seeds. Malachi 2:15B... this assignment should not be one sided because God expects both parents, the father and mother to train their children. Parents in this context, are people, male and female who come together to bring forth children while godly parents are par- ents who have the fear of God and train their offspring's in the way of the Lord. If parents are not godly how will they be able to train their children in the way of the Lord? May I remind you at this juncture that you cannot give what you do not have? Therefore as a parent, if you do not have the Spirit of God in you, how do you want to make an impact on your children in a godly manner? No one born of God will continue to sin because God's seed remains in them, they cannot go on sinning be- cause they have been born of God...1John 3:9. Therefore first and foremost, in order to parent or nurture in a godly way, the seed of God that is the Spirit of God must remain in the parents and it is the presence of this seed that enables or empower the parents to raise and train their children in a godly way.

Godly parenting is a process that can be likened to the planting of seed. If you want the seeds to germinate and bring forth fruits you have to tender, nurture, water and watch over it until it reaches a stage of maturity. However in the case of parent- ing , it is till eternity because even when the children are old you still have to guide, counsel and pray for them continually.

How Can I Be A Godly Parent?

..Submit yourself to God and dedicate your children to God...the word of God says that your children shall be taught of the Lord...Isaiah 54:13

..Teach them the word of God and do not let it depart from them....Joshua 1:8

..Take your children to church, let them attend Sunday school, help them with their assignment

Train them in the way that they should go and when they grow up they will not depart from it....Proverbs 22: 6. The founda- tion of a child matters and if a child is well founded and rooted on the truth of God and moral teachings he or she will not go astray.....

Believe the word of God concerning children....I and the children the Lord has given unto me are for signs and wonders.

Love your children and show them how to love and how to give and how to reach out to people in kindness. Talking about love, a child that is not loved will be emotionally unstable in any relationship and will be a problem in future, to his or her spouse. Let your children be your friends or be friends with your children Correct your child in love and do not condemn or shut them down.

Create time for your child no matter how busy you are and do not leave them to their own devise, that is guide them and be their coach.

Remember that parenting is not just about birthing but about nurturing.

When there is the need to discipline a child do not withhold it but do it without delay and let him know the reason for this discipline.....the rod and reproof give wisdom but a child left to himself brings shame to his mother.....Proverbs 29:15

Pray, pray, pray and pray for your children!!! As you do this you are sowing into their lives.

No matter how your child offends you do not curse him....

Prophecy and decree the promises of God unto them. Lay hands on them and declare good things to them.

Shalom

REVIEWS FROM THE FUTURE DESTINED SEMINAR 2017.

NAME: UZIH UFOMA

AGE: 21

Are you excited to be part of this seminar (THE FUTURE DESTINED?)

Answer: YES

WHAT WAS THE IMPACT OF THIS SEMINAR TO YOU

I think this is the most interesting and great seminar I have been to, it's my first and I believe it is the best. I feel motivated. The speakers were really great, it's as if they were talking to me in person. It's really a motivational seminar because it made me to understand and know so many things I never knew before and now I can boldly and confidently walk in the path of my passion without any fear of obstacles and challenges that might come my way. I learnt a lot this day.

WHAT ADVICE DO YOU HAVE FOR THE YOUNG GENERATION

My advice to the young ones out there is that they should walk on the path of their passion without fear, no matter what may come their way. They should not live the life of others just to belong but rather do their best and work hard towards achieving their goals. They should always believe in themselves and in their ability, and most importantly they should not seek to be known but rather seek to know because when you seek to know people will seek to know you. They should disassociate themselves from things that will hold them back from working towards their vision, always focus on your purpose and achieve it.

WHAT WAS THE IMPACT OF THIS SEMINAR TO YOU?

The seminar was an eye opener to me. It made me realize that everyone or rather anybody no matter the circumstances or shortcomings you can succeed and you have to succeed. It made me realize that passion works with your diligence and not waiting for it to occur.

The main purpose in life is to "live a life of purpose", this is a quote that made sounding note to me and I believe that it's going to help me achieve greater things and impact on others.

This seminar has boosted the "I CAN DO" habit in me and I believe that I can do a lot of great things no matter my age, race or religion or family background and in the society I live in.

This seminar is a bonus to my desired goal and I'm really grateful to God for giving me the grace to witness such seminar.

My advice to young people out there is to discover their innate passion and work towards making it sprout and successful to impact the world positively at large. Their watch word and principle be self-belief.

It was wonderful and fabulous to be a partaker in this seminar. The seminar was touching. It helped me to build myself and to believe in myself and hope that tomorrow will be better because my future starts with me. I realized that I was created for a purpose. My purpose on earth is to become what God says I should be and my vision is to fulfill my dreams.

My advice for the young people is that they should know their purpose for living and believe in themselves, they should have confidence because your purpose brings out your compassion and your passion turns out your profession. Your vision and dreams and your responsibility normally respond to your ability.

This seminar is super impactful because it is an eye opener for finding purpose through passion and response to your ability, in other words "taking responsibilities". Besides, what really intrigued me, is that I learnt that I should put into action every little thing or information I have acquired on time. So I have decided to take all necessary actions on time to make impact and fulfill my purpose by the grace of God.

There are majorly two key words that define a young person, vision and strength. Every human has the ability to see the future, create imaginations, dream and plan for the future, most especially the youth. As a youth, you must start developing your mind by getting information by reading, attending, seeking counsels etc. which will enhance your ability to see visions and put it into actions.

There is time for every purpose under the heavens. This is the time perfect time for every young person to find their purpose according to the will of God. All young persons should also remember that they are strong, so now is the time for them to take responsibility for their lives.
